Affidavit

Name:

Student No.:

Upon graduation, if the above said student not only fails to pass the required level of Japanese language proficiency test but also fails to take the substitute course for equivalent language proficiency, the University will not confer a diploma or conditional certificate to the student, despite the fact that the student has completed all the required academic credits for graduation. In the next academic year, the student's registration status will be deemed as extension and will have to pass the language proficiency test within two years or take the substitute course in order to earn the degree and its diploma.
